

THE VILLAGE CRIER

THE CORUNNA HISTORICAL VILLAGE OF SHIAWASSEE COUNTY
VOLUME 5 ISSUE 2 SUMMER 2005

Many improvements have been made in the village over the summer. Wood Wool roofed the New Haven Township Hall. This was a much needed repair as it was leaking profusely. The Antrim Township Hall Outhouse was also roofed with matching green T-lock shingles.

Al Horton, Dick Waters and Bob Graham put in a new drainage system to keep water from accumulating under the township hall.

Dick Waters and Bob Graham have been renovating the kitchen of the Webster Davis-Kribs home. They re-built an addition on the back so that the door to the dining room can be put back in and the window in the dining room can be reinstalled. The kitchen has been gutted down to the wood lathe. John Austin and Tom Allan, a GM job bank worker, have been updating the electrical system in the village. They have installed lights and added more outlets, both inside and outside the buildings. This will make the village more functional. Christmas lights will be much easier to put up with all the new outlets.

A rustic fence around the Hopson-Hornak herb garden has been started. Master gardeners, Shauna Bayless and Rhonda Harris have developed a flower garden between the Williams Carriage Barn and the corncrib.

Please save your Vg's receipts. Their Community Share program gave the village over $500 in 2004.

We no longer receive funds from the City of Corunna. Therefore the financial support of the Friends of the Village is vital to the village's continued development.

The payment for the roofing of the township hall, the purchase of all the electrical boxes and lines, the purchase of propane for the winter, and the payment of other expenses would not have been possible had it not been for the members of the Friends of the Village through their annual memberships. We thank you for helping us to keep Shiawassee County's past a visual reminder for the youth of today. Please continue your generosity and

Did you know that memorial contributions to the village may be designated at any funeral home? Memorial Fund envelopes have been given to all area funeral homes.
